ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I take this opportunity to place on record my deep sense of gratitude to supervisor Dr. G. Ram, Reader, Depertment of Sociology, Assam University, Silchar, for inspiring me to face the realm of research. His able guidence and expertise exposed me to the stimulating research problems through constent provoking and ancouragement, without which the present work could not have been possible. I also extend thanks to Dr. V. P. Singh, Reader, Depertment of Sociology and G. P. Pandey, Reader, Depertment of Mass Communication, Assam University, Silchar, for Inspiring and helping me in various ways during the progress of my work.

I express my sincere gratitude to prof. Sudhakar Rao, Head Dept. of Sociology and Debashis Bhattacharjee, Reader Dept. of Political Science, Assam University, Silchar, for their valuable suggestions and co-operation.

The study took a long time to complete and my indebtedness to others keept growing all the while. I am speacially indebted to Harendra Nath Barbhuiya, Nabagupal Sharma and Rajit Nath for their kind co-operation by providing me the traditional understanding of life in the village. I owe a speacial thanks to Nanda Kishar Singh, Probash Chandra Nath and Shyam Deb Kurmi for making valuable information available to me and showing friendly gestures during the fieldwork. I am also grateful to my friend, Mihir Nath and the respondents from the households in Narsingpur for spearing their valuable time for me that I could collect the data for the study.

Words are not sufficient to appreciate how much I have received of what is at the hands of brother Nihar Ranjan Nath. The unbounded and unfailing, patience of my father Nani Gopal Nath, my mother Priti Nath and beloved sister Rupali through out the entire period of my higher studies, let alone their financial sacrifice, make me feel indebted to them for ever in my life.

Thanks are also due to the staff of Assam Unversity Library, Silchar, Cachar District Library and Director of Economics and Statistics, Department of Assam, Silchar for their kind co-operation during the data collection.

Lastly, I expresss my thanks to composer at the ETDR computers for his long sittings in front of his computer to compose the present work.

Department of Sociology
Assam University, Silchar
May - 2001

19/05/01
(RANA RANJAN NATH)