Acknowledgement

A thesis is the golden harvest of not only the investigator's effort and toil but also a host of others chip in with their valuable suggestions, comments, advice and lending more than a helping hand. Teachers, colleagues, students, friends and well-wishers – all play roles of immense significance in shaping up the arduous work. Let me at the very outset gratefully acknowledge the contribution made by each one of them.

First and foremost, I would like to place on record my sincere and humble homage to Prof. N.B. Biswas, Dean Asustosh Mukhopadhyay School of Education, Assam University, Silchar and my supervisor, who has always been a source of inspiration. Notwithstanding his busy schedule, it is he who has always been the foremost pillar of direction and guidance piloting me to the apposite direction of study.

The ever-smiling Maharaj, Swami Tattwasarananda, Principal, Ramakrishna Mission Sikshanamandira, Belurmath, has been a great source of encouragement in carrying out this research work. He has most courteously provided me all help at his command at every time of need. I convey my regards to him from the bottom of my heart.

I thankfully acknowledge the role played by Prof. Tapan Kumar Basantia of Department Education, Assam University, Silchar, who has been associated with me since the beginning of this project helping me out with all the nit-grities of the process and encouraging me even at the most difficult of times.

I also recall with gratitude all the crucial advice and directions in carrying out the research I received at very critical phases from Projit-da, Prof. Projit Kumar Palit, Head, Department of History, Assam University, Silchar and my senior at Visva-Bharati.

Dr Kishor Satpathy, Librarian, National Institute of Technology (NIT), Silchar has been a man of immense help and assistance all throughout the project not only offering me the best of services at his well-equipped library but also directing me, as and when necessary, to appropriate resources elsewhere. I sincerely appreciate his contribution to this research work.

I must also thank Prof. Rajiva Lochan Mahapatra, Department of Education, University of Burdwan and Ms Rupashree Pal, research scholar at the Department of Education, Assam University, Silchar for their continual logistical support in my study.

During my days in far away Silchar in connection with the study, I found a home away from home in the sylvan and serene atmosphere of the NIT Guest House. I thank Mr Indrajit Goswami, In-charge, NIT Guest House, Silchar for all the amenities he provided along with the homely comfort. I must pause and gratefully recall the affection showered on me all through my days in Silchar by Prof. Bhagirathi Biswas of Department of Sanskrit, Assam University, Silchar. She has been a caring presence all along.

My father, Prof. Mohit Chakrabarti, formerly of Department of Education, Visva-Bharati University, Santiniketan has been a true inspiration from childhood. One grew up looking at him at his studies even at the very odd hours of the day. I cannot but recall with a sense of reverence all the advice and the words of caution he effortlessly enkindled me at every juncture of this important endeavour.

Last but not the least, no words of appreciation is good enough for Priyanka, my better half, who has smilingly withstood all my whims and fancies, irregularities and disorderliness and unhesitatingly providing me with great source of encouragement for all these five odd years. Without her selfless effort this work would not have seen the light of day.
